HOME BREW IS TO GO UNDER BAN, ANNOUNCEMENT MADE

Prohibition Officers Rule Against the Sale of Hops and Malt to All But Bakers and Confectioners.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Home brewing was brought under the prohibition ban today when it was learned enforcement officials had ruled against the sale of hops and malt to others than bakers and confectioners. Great secrecy surrounded the prohibition bureau action, but it was definitely ascertained that such instructions had been issued.

Details of the order were lacking. The only admission made by prohibition officials, in the absence of Commissioner Kramer, was that the Volstead act had been construed to mean that the sale of hops and malt as component parts of home-made beer were without the pale of the law and their sale must stop. Enforcement officials throughout the country have been notified of the government's determination, but they have not been supplied with technical language of the decision.

The construction of the law which resulted in the new orders was made nearly two months ago. At that time officials having it in charge started a document through the regular procedure, from which it emerges as a Treasury decision. But it has not yet been approved by Secretary Houston. Further than to admit existence of the proposed Treasury ruling officials declined to discuss it.

Emphatic denial was made to the report that the bureau had considered or had included in the order other articles used in home brewing. Officials likewise denied that provision was to be made for the licensing of even the bakers and confectioners, apparently the only persons who will be able to purchase malt and hops.

There were persistent rumors at both the prohibition and internal revenue headquarters that scores of complaints had come from the manufacturers of cereal beverages, containing less than 1/2 of one per cent. of alcohol against the tremendous growth of brewing as a home industry. On this phase of the situation officials also refused comment.

DESERTED STILL IS FOUND NEAR VANCEBURG

Path Had Been Worn From the Town to Place Where Still Was Found Near Lewis Capital.

The Vanceburg Sun says: "Sheriff Bertram and Mr. Wright found part of the working remains of a full fledged still on the Stamper farm below town. The still was located under the river bank. Three barrels of mash, two milk cans and some other parts were found and destroyed. The still was not in evidence but a nice furnace was there and had been used. It is supposed to belong to parties living here as they had been observed making daily trips there for several weeks."

CAMPAIGN TO START FROM HOSPITAL BED FOR THE STARVING

Rev. J. J. Dickey Makes Plea For Armenian and Syrian Children from Hospital Bed—Campaign To Be Started.

Rev. J. J. Dickey, pastor of "The Little Brick Church," who was injured seriously in an automobile accident on last Friday, today called the pastors of the local churches and a number of prominent men and women to his ward in Hayswood Hospital and used a pathetic plea for the Armenian and Syrian Relief fund. Pastor Dickey has been chosen chairman of the drive for Mason county and this county has been asked to contribute $2,500 to the campaign.

New interest was taken in this great and good work two weeks ago when the Literary Digest made a strong appeal for the persecuted children of the Christian Near East. The Digest's appeal has been answered from all over the nation and near $200,000 has been donated. President-elect Warren G. Harding has liberally contributed $2,500 to the fund and the Relief Commission asks all of Mason county to contribute exactly the amount the President-elect has contributed.

Rev. Dickey's plea is a strong one. He pleads for the little ones of the Bible lands and asks every man, woman and child in Mason county to take a part in raising this fund. He hopes to complete a county-wide organization and direct the movement from his hospital bed. He is asking all churches, Sunday schools and day schools in the county to get into the drive with enthusiasm and is asking every child in Mason county to contribute to the fund if only a penny or a five-cent piece.

Mr. W. W. Hall, Jr., has been chosen Treasurer of the campaign in Mason county and the balance of the organization will be announced just as soon as possible. It is Rev. Dickey's purpose to have a committeeman in every precinct in Mason county. Mason county's appanment should be raised by Thanksgiving.

Mr. William Ryan, a former Maysvillian, died in Birmingham, Ala., last Tuesday, aged 69 years. Mr. Ryan was for a long time editor of the Richmond State, and at the time of his decease was on the staff of the Birmingham Age Herald. Like his brother, Chas. B. Ryan, he always kept up his interest in Maysville, and will be remembered affectionately by many friends and kinspeople here.

PRIZES ARE OFFERED FOR BEST DECORATED BOOTHS

Managing Committee of Corn and Tobacco Fair Make It Interesting to Have Attractive Booths.

At the meeting of the managing committee of the Maysville Corn and Tobacco Fair held at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening that committee decided to offer a prize of $7.50 for the best decorated booth at this year's show and $2.50 for the second best booth.

It was explained that the best decorated booth did not necessarily have to be the most gorgeously decorated stall but the committee will be instructed to award the prizes to those booths which are best decorated to advertise the merchandise handled by the owner of the booth.

Arrangements are being made today to put all of the booths in condition for the decoration which is expected to begin the first of next week. It is hoped by the management that all of the decorating will be completed and that everything will be in readiness for the grand opening on the first day of the fair. The managers are hoping that there will be no stragglers and that everything will be ready to begin in earnest when Governor Morrow officially declares the big show on.

MONDAY of Thanksgiving Week Is Date for the Next Big Show at the Washington Theater.

"Good Morning, Judge," which proved to be one of the big hits of the last theatrical year in New York, playing the greater part of the season and until the advent of hot weather at the Shubert Theater, will be the next attraction at the Washington Theater on Monday November 22d. This attraction was booked yesterday by the management of the local theater.

Shep Camp who created the role of the bound, yet hypocritical magistrate, when the musical comedy was reproduced from the London triumph, "The Boy," will be seen in the famous role, and which, in turn, brought celebrity to him. Gene Layman, who shared honors with Shep Camp in making hundreds of thousands laugh, will be seen in his familiar role of the second magistrate who saves the day after Judge Meebles inadvertently sentences his wife and family to jail.

The production is elaborate and the celebrated beauty brigade that put the din in dinner in the cabaret scene is retained.

Perhaps no musical comedy on the stage today enjoys so unique a record as "Good Morning Judge." Written as a farce by the late Sir Arthur Wing Pinero thirty-four years ago it brought him fame and fortune overnight as "The Magistrate." It was transplanted to this country in the same year and has been played continuously all over the world ever since. About three years ago Sir Arthur consented to the farce being given musical comedy presentation as an antidote for the war gloom then

FEDERAL PRISONER ESCAPES COVINGTON JAIL

Man serving sentence for violating Prohibition Law Says Out of Covington Jail.

Arthur Denny, of Greenwood, Ky., a Federal prisoner at the Covington, Ky., jail escaped early Friday by sawing his way out of his cell and leaping through a small corridor window to the jail yard. Discovery of his absence was made at 5 o'clock Friday morning, by Deputy Jailer Gus Colvin. The bars of the cell had been cut through and then bent back to permit exit. The alarm was sounded immediately and a search was begun. Denny was serving a six-months sentence imposed by U. S. District Judge Cochran, of Covington, for violation of the prohibition act.

Several weeks ago, two Federal prisoners escaped from the Covington jail. Following this escape, Judge Cochran ordered all Federal prisoners to be transferred to the Maysville jail. Later, however, he ordered prisoners to be confined in Covington.

prevailing in London and it was presented at the Adelphi Theater as "The Boy" enjoying a continuous run until a very recent date. The London title was not considered sufficiently descriptive for the American stage when it was decided to duplicate the production here and "The Magistrate" then passed through a third change of name and became "Good Morning Judge." So great was its success last season that the New York production was duplicated in Australia under the same name and has proved a sensation triumph in the Antipodes.

INVESTIGATION OF TEACHER'S MURDER FOCUSES ON WINNES

Examination Into Horrible Murder of Miss Parsons Centers on Dr. Winnes, State Veterinarian—Negro Offers Alibi.

Harlan, Ky., Nov. 11.—The examination into the murder of Miss Lura Parsons, Pine Mountain Settlement school teacher, today seemed to forge more links in the chain of circumstantial evidence which seem to be incriminating Dr. H. C. Winnes, deputy State Veterinarian.

A white fireman at the steam shovel testified that Robinson, the negro, was at the shovel with his wagon at 12:20 o'clock and if this is true it is generally conceded that he would not have had time to commit the crime.

Testimony that mule tracks were found near the scene of the crime which tracks fitted the shoe of the mule Dr. Winnes rode, was given.

Several witnesses testified that Winnes arrived at the school at about 4 o'clock on the afternoon and that he acted like a drunken man.

Miss Nellie E. Mann, a teacher at the school in charge of the dairy, said the doctor arrived between 3:30 and 4 o'clock.

Miss Mann said he did not tell her about Miss Parsons until the next morning. "Then he told me he supposed she had arrived all right."

"He kept talking about the missing teacher," the witness said, "and in the afternoon remarked several times that he was worried about her."

Miss Mann said he acted like a drunken man and told of his offering her 50 cents to "buy something at the store."

Attorney M. J. Hennessey, of Augusta, was here today on business.

BONDS "BEARED" BY BOARD.

The Federal Reserve Board exults over the country's recovery from war conditions, which it says is "proceeding apace in the United States." But that recovery would have been far more advanced than it is had it not been for the actions of that very Board. Nobody will ever know the amount of money that has been muled from the people by profiteers doing business on capital borrowed from Federal Reserve Banks; nor can the loss to the millions of Liberty bond holders be computed which resulted directly from the grant by the Board to banks of authority to increase their rates on miscellaneous loans, thereby depreciating the market price of bonds that yielded only 3½ to 4½ per cent., a depression that was hastened by the insistence of the Board that banks should rid themselves of much of the Liberty bond collateral that they held as security for loans.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.

Post bellum reconstruction, as outlined by the Republicans of Congress in resolutions presented immediately after the armistice, is made possible by the election of Senator Harding. Unfortunately it is too late to reap all the advantages that could have been attained had the Republicans been in position in the winter of 1918-1919 to put their policies into effect. The intervening period has been a costly one for the country, the Democratic administration being as recklessly extravagant in dismantling the war machine as it was in its erection. So far as the Republican program of reconstruction, prepared two years ago can be applied to conditions as they will exist after March 4th it will be utilized, and the country is bound to benefit thereby.

THEY HAVE UNTIL MARCH FOURTH.

In the first 15 days of October, Canadian farmers sent nearly 5,000,000 bushels of wheat into the United States—more than had been shipped into the United States from that country in the whole month of October for four previous years combined. Under the present Democratic tariff law, wheat must come in free whenever Canada imposes no import duty on American wheat. In other words, Canada determines when the United States may charge an import duty on wheat. One more instance of Democratic surrender to other nations.

WE ARE CURED!

Wilson gained control in 1912 through an unfortunate division in the Republican ranks. It retained that control in 1916 by a small majority attributable entirely to the false and deceitful slogan upon which the Democrats waged their campaign. No nation in history has paid such terrible atonement for its political mistakes. But the lesson has sunk deep into the minds of the people, and it will be many long years before they are led astray again.

THE PEOPLE RULE.

After March 5th we will have a government of, for and by all the people instead of a government of, for, and by a single individual.

ETHICS OF WET YACHTING.

A man invited three friends to spend a week on his yacht. The boat caught fire and, although all hands escaped, their valuable were lost. The three guests are now suing their host for amounts aggregating more than $50,000 to recompense them for the loss of clothing, pet dogs, gold cigarette cases and the like. It is charged in the complaint that the host, in violation of the law, had intoxicated beverages aboard the yacht and that, partaking thereof, he neglected precautions against fire.

So what was once the embodiment of hospitality now become the basis of litigation. But the question which will be asked by many who are interested in yachts and gold cigarette cases is this: Is it clubby to complain under such circumstances? Are there not thousands of persons who would willingly risk all their clothing, pompadours and gold cigarette cases for a trip on a yacht wetly provisioned? We fear so.

If the bountiful yachtman has to pay, what of the future? If John Doe fell down stairs after sampling Richard Roe's home brew, does an action lie? If a guest burn his fingers while investigating the host's private still, is he to collect damages? — New York Herald.

Officials of the National City Bank of Ottawa, Ill., last night worked all night in an effort to pen the large safe in that bank fearing that the cashier had been locked in the vault by robbers. When the safe was finally opened no one was found on the inside. Robbers had carried away approximately $60,000. The cashier's whereabouts is still a mystery.

DEADER THAN EVER IS WILSON LEAGUE SAYS STATEMENT

Republican Publicity Head Issues a Statement On the So-Called Wilsonian League of Nations.

Washington, D. C. — Insisting that the Wilson league of nations is dead, the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., issued the following statement.

"Shortly before the elections in 1918 Mr. Wilson issued an appeal to the voters to return a Democratic Senate and House so that support of his policies, one of which he had proclaimed to be the establishment of a league of nations, might be assured. The result was a complete repudiation of the President, and the election of Republican majorities in both Houses. On March 4, 1919, a round robin was signed by 39 Senators of the incoming Congress proclaiming to the world that the covenant of the league of nations as then framed by Mr. Wilson should not be adopted by the United States. On November 19, 1919, the Senate rejected the league, as it had been presented to it by the President, by the overwhelming vote of 53 Nays to 38 Yeas. On March 19, 1920, the Senate again denied endorsement of the covenant, even after it had been Americanized by the Lodge reservations, by the vote of 49 Yeas to 35 Nays, two-thirds being necessary for ratification. On November 2, 1920, the American people condemned the league again by an adverse plurality of upwards of 7,000,000 voters, after the question had been made the chief issue of the campaign following the edict of the President that there should be a 'solemn referendum' upon it."

"The league of nations has been thrice killed by the action of the people's representatives in the Senate, clothed with Constitutional powers to deal with such matters, and twice condemned by the people themselves through the ballot. Yet proponents of the league refuse to acknowledge the fact. They have the audacity to declare that Senator Harding, after his inauguration, will resurrect the two-year-old corpse, breathe new life into it, and make the United States a member nation, either with or without reservations. Norman Hapgood, representative of the league advocates, is reported as saying that the league will be adopted within a year. His views may be somewhat extreme, but they illustrate what is taking place in the minds of the pro-leaguers."

"The sooner those men disavow themselves of that idea the better it will be for their own peace of mind and that of others. The very votes that elected Senator Harding to the White House decreed that the United States should not become a member of the league. Even though there should be a complete reversal of sentiment in the Senate, it is inconceivable that President Harding would cast aside the mandate of the people and submit the covenant again to the Senate for ratification. He stands for an association of nations that will promote peace, but he is unequivocally against the league as we now know it."

"President Harding will never propose, and the Senate will never accept, an international agreement that confers jurisdiction upon a foreign council over American armies and navies; that agrees in advance upon a course of conduct that we will pursue in the event of more foreign wars; that surrenders the Monroe Doctrine; that permits a foreign tribunal to determine our domestic policies; that pledges the nation to a permanent policy of free trade; that submits to an exchange of trade secrets with all other nations; that permits Great Britain to wield six votes in the determination of an international problem while the United States has but one; that agrees to abide by all these and the man yother assaults upon our independence contained in the notorious covenant."

"Senator Harding is committed against those propositions and he is commanded by the people to stand fast. They can never be revived in the form of the old covenant, nor in any other form of shape. Hapgood and his ilk may, like certain Orientals, spend their lives in veneration of the departed, but they should not make the mistake of detecting animation in a thing so dead."

Attention, Tobacco Sellers

The Maysville Tobacco Warehouse takes great pleasure in announcing to the Tobacco Growers that the Maysville Market will again have a full corps of buyers—in fact more than they ever had.

The following factories and firms will be represented direct by their own individual buyers: The American Tobacco Co., Liggett & Myers, Lorillard Co. (for the first time by a direct buyer), J. B. Heizer Co., Lovell & Buffington, Thos. H. Gray, R. J. Reynolds Co., I. L. Walker Tobacco Co., J. P. Taylor Co. Besides retailers without number. There will be in operation 6 red-driers and storage houses with a capacity of 50,000,000 pounds.

The houses have ample floor and room capacity to take care of every wagon and truck or hoghead that comes. So no matter what the rush, you can always rest assured of being under shelter. The buying end have greatly increased their facilities for handling. So as to keep the Tobacco moving.

Last season more than over convinced us that Tobacco must be carefully stripped, each leaf put where it belongs and that it must be slowly come to the conclusion the grower in his own barn can more carefully and better sort it than we. Especially as the help we can get who really know how, is getting scarcer, each year. So we have decided to give up any attempt at sorting and will this season put it on the basket just as it comes off the wagon or truck. So we must insist that you load it just as you want it put on the basket. The outlook for extreme high prices is not promising, though we still believe a good crop well handled will sell satisfactorily. So it more important than for years you select a market where there will be all possible competition and take more pains than ever in handling. Be sure and keep all leaves affected with the Rust or Wildfire to themselves. Very Respectfully,

ELECTION COMMENT.

Poincxter Put 'Em Over.
Washington, No. 10. — One of the agreeable surprises of the Republicans as a result of the recent election was the overwhelming victory in the contest for control of the Senate. There was full confidence of the result of the Presidential contest all through the campaign, but the Democrats centered their efforts on the Senate, where the Republicans had control by a margin of only one Senatorship. In a number of states the fight was close. Under the leadership of Senator Miles Poincxter, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Committee, the Senatorial campaign was carefully planned and efficiently conducted, with the result that the Republicans won a number of seats that few people thought could be secured. The Republicans will have a good working majority in the next Congress, in both houses.

A Well-Deserved Victory.
The big victory won by Senator Albert B. Cummins, of Iowa, has been especially gratifying to the Republicans. To Senator Cummins, as Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, fell the chief work of drafting the final form of the railroad bill and taking the lead in the legislative proceedings by which it was enacted. Cummins was the author of the anti-strike clause, which, together with the provisions for a board of adjudication, created an agency for the settlement of disputes without resort to strikes and interruption of traffic. Because of his stand on that subject, Cummins was made object of special attack by the radical labor leaders who hoped to secure his defeat and thereby a demonstration of their power. Cummins won an unprecedented victory, indicating that the voters of Iowa appreciate faithful service for the common good.

Representative-Governor-Senator Willis.
Among the new members of the Senate as a result of the recent election will be Frank B. Willis, of Ohio. Senator Harding will resign in January, after a Republican Governor has been installed and Willis will be appointed to fill out that term and will begin his own term on March 4. Willis is an orator of high standing, and is credited with making the best speech heard at the Chicago Convention last June. Willis is a lawyer by profession, served two terms in the Ohio House of Representatives, two terms in the United States House of Representatives, and one term as Governor of Ohio.

Another Friend For Sheep.
Robert N. Stanfield, Republican, who has been elected to the Senate from Oregon to succeed George E. Chamberlain, Democrat, is a farmer, engaged chiefly in sheep raising but dealing in sheep and wool on the side. His election was one of the surprises of the campaign, for his opponent, Chamberlain, is not only widely known and personally very popular but had made a hit with the people by his open denunciation of the incompetency of the War Department. Stanfield's thorough familiarity with the practical problems with which the farmer has to deal will make him a particularly valuable member of the Senate.

MR. BURLISON GIVES DIAGNOSIS OF THE DEFEAT

Postmaster General Is Quoted As Giving Certain Reasons For Democratic Defeat In November.

Discussing the result of the recent election, Postmaster General Burleson is quoted as attributing Democratic defeat to failure of the Democratic managers to charge the drop in farm prices to the Republicans, and ingratitude on the part of labor. Mr. Burleson is evidently as poor a judge of politics as he is of postal service, for he also included in his list of Democratic mistakes the failure of Mr. Cox to utilize the influence of members of the cabinet.

Taking these up in their order: While it would have been entirely in keeping with the dishonest Democratic methods to attempt to fasten upon the Republicans responsibility for decline in prices of farm products, there is no possibility that such a charge could have been made with hope of success. The country knows that the deflation program was in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board, a Democratic organization, and from the beginning of the deflation movement, the farmers themselves fixed the responsibility. Leaders in politics took the subject up only after the farmers started the discussion. There was no exploit in that subject for the Democrats. Indoubtedly prices will continue to recede, and there are many evidences in our foreign trade statistics that there will be a curtailment of production in America, with resultant cutting down of payrolls. In accordance with the Burleson suggestion, the Democrats will undoubtedly try to fix responsibility for all unemployment upon the Republicans. Files of Democratic newspapers will show, however, when the period of decline began. The Democratic party claimed credit for the war prosperity, augmented on paper by the inflation built up by the Federal Reserve Board and it cannot deny responsibility for the reaction.

As to the Burleson claim that labor has been ungrateful, one might well ask, "Ungrateful for what?" If the Democratic party especially favored labor during its period of administration it was guilty of establishing class government, and was fit subject for universal condemnation. If it did not favor labor, there was no occasion for any demonstration of gratitude. By intimating that labor should have shown gratitude, Mr. Burleson practically charges his party with favoritism. When he erred his labor with not supporting the Democratic nominee, he unwittingly pays labor a compliment. As a matter of fact, Republicans have stood for all the legitimate demands of labor. The Democratic administration cooperated with some of the leaders of organized labor but to the disadvantage of the permanent interests of labor as a whole. Mr. Gompers was duly grateful, and showed his gratitude, but he had only one vote.

The third item in Mr. Burleson's list of causes of defeat is really amusing. "Influence of members of the cabinet," indeed! Mr. Cox was possessed of sufficient political sagacity to know that the influence of the members of the cabinet is a negative quantity, and in fact, constituted one of his handicaps. By overwhelming if not practically unanimous sentiment, officers of the army and navy, employees of the postal service and men and women in government positions in other departments, were against the Democratic administration. With the exception of Wilson himself, no one hurt the Democratic party more than the members of his cabinet. Cox did the best he could under the circumstances. He played small politics—the only kind he knew how to play—and he had no one to help him do differently.

HIS OWN BOSS CAME FIRST.

A boy dashed into a broker's office with news bulletins. As he turned to leave a member of the firm called out: "Here, you seem to have some pep. Get me a box of cigars in the lobby and keep 'em change."

The boy hesitated, although a $5 bank note was thrust into his hands. Finally he stammered: "I would like to get you cigars, but we are short of boys, and I have a big route to cover. I'll come back when I deliver these bulletins." With that he left the office.

"Are you going to wait until he returns?" asked a customer.
"You bet I am," replied the broker.
